

DREAM OF LIFE-TIME COMES TRUE IN NEW HOTEL

FAITH IN CITY SHOWN BY EXPENDITURE OF THOUSANDS

Substantial and Imposing Structure to Be Opened Saturday Night a Credit to San Luis Obispo and Owner

The fulfillment of the dream of J. L. Anderson, the builder, and marking a turning point in the history of the city when its citizenry caught step in the march of progress with other cities of the state, the five-story $300,000 Anderson Hotel structure stands ready for the formal opening Saturday evening, July 28.

Eight years ago when Mr. Anderson acquired the property at the corner of Morro and Monterey streets he already had the vision of the Anderson Hotel that was some day to stand there, a hostelry embodying the requirements of the traveling public and making San Luis Obispo famed as a hotel city.

Occupying a vantage point in the city, the new hotel of concrete and steel construction that is practically fire-proof, of five stories containing 84 rooms with baths, equipped and furnished to meet modern hotel requirements, is the realization of the dream of Mr. Anderson when the property was purchased.

Only a part of the Anderson Hotel property is occupied by the building, the same construction as the first. On the remainder, a second and will stand on the remaining lot unit will be placed within a part of the lot. The foundation for the second unit is already laid, and the building is being expressed by Mr. Anderson today, nelled back and left in readiness by the additional unit will be one of the workmen who laid the foundation for the newly completed structure, the opening of which will be celebrated Saturday evening. Congratulations have been pouring in on Mr. Anderson from friends in all parts of the state since the story of his venture first went out, slightly more than a year ago, with the word of how he was building a dream of his own, the substance of steel and concrete, that was to be his contribution to his home city, the background of his business life for more than 20 years.

Many Reservations Made Saturday night, further opportunity will be given for the extending of congratulations and reservations have already been made by large groups of friends, both from San Luis Obispo city and county and other parts of the state who have signified their intention of coming to spend the opening night in the new hotel and wishing its owner success in the undertaking. The opening will take the form of a dinner dance, the music to be furnished by the Dugli Orchestra, a local group of musicians popular with the dancing public, and entertainment features to be given by Miss Bessie Hull, famed vocalist, and Miss Olive Reed, a violinist of renown in musical circles. Both artists are personal friends of Mr. Harold Anderson, who is herself a talented pianist. In addition to these features, it will be an occasion of rejoicing and congratulation, a gathering at which leading citizens will celebrate the new trend in San Luis Obispo's progress.

Mr. Anderson's son, Harold Anderson, has been associated with his father in the building of the hotel project. C. W. Scott, former manager of the Anderson Hotel of Phoenix, Ariz., and the Lee Hotel of Los Angeles is the manager of the Anderson Hotel and with Mrs. Scott has taken up his residence here. He considers it a coincidence that Mr. Anderson's given name should be Jefferson Lee, believing it assures good luck to the venture.

CONGRATULATIONS

The Telegram joins with every business firm and citizen of San Luis Obispo in congratulations to Mr. J. L. Anderson on the occasion of the opening Saturday evening of the Anderson Hotel, a model of comfort and convenience for the traveler and resident; a credit to its builder and the city in which it is located.

That Mr. Anderson, a San Luis Obispo man who knows his city's past and is hopeful of its future, has the confidence to invest thousands of dollars in such a structure as he has erected at the corner of Monterey and Morro streets is the best possible evidence of the stability of San Luis Obispo and the best possible argument that San Luis Obispo will continue to grow. For it is just such demonstrations of faith in one's town that makes cities, and San Luis Obispo is on her way.

The Anderson is Mr. Anderson's concrete expression of his faith in the city where he has so long been an honored resident and where he has made his money he now invests in the form of a lasting comfort and convenience for the traveler and friend.

his line that the opening of the hotel will bring.

Believing the new hotel to be the best of its kind in the town, a central corner and an attraction to business, the firm of Mathews & Carpenter, druggists, is opening on Saturday the third in a chain of local drug stores. The store has the latest built-in fixtures, approved by the Owl Drug Co., of which Mat-Car is the local representative, and being placed in all Ovi Drug Co. stores. The fixtures aim to cut down the space needed by providing both storage and display of goods. A showcase window is a feature of the Morro street side. The space taken by the drug firm has been provided with an alley for storage space for such articles as must be accessible, while more storage is provided in the basement. The mazzanine floor is wired and plumbed for the purpose of modern heavy shop and as soon as an experienced person is found a beauty parlor will be opened there. The fixtures are quarter-sawn golden oak and the wall decorations are in keeping with the purpose of the store, with the firm's monogram placed on the wall panels. The show cases are all cemented with a glass top, giving the articles fullest display. The floor has the finest linoleum in tilted effect laid by the San Luis Furniture Co. The electric sign of enameled porcelain was hung by Clive's Electric Shop, which also had the hanging of the Anderson hotel sign. This shop furnished the fixtures for the office of Dr. Gowman as well as for Mat-Car. The fixtures are General Electric Co. products known as the Ivanhoe Ace, while the commercial window lighting fixture is also put out by that company and is believed by Mr. Clive to be the newest and most satisfactory for all round merchandise purposes.

The window lettering on the dit-

Forest stores in the building has been artistically arranged by W. Roelwell, local sign painter. First Announcement May 17, 1922. First announcement of Mr. Anderson's intention to erect the hotel was made officially to The Telegram on May 17, 1922, in the following story which will be of interest at this time as showing that even details had been definitely worked out by Mr. Anderson before making the announcement. Except for the fact that the cost of the building far ex-

PERMANENCY IN BUILDERS' HARDWARE

In olden days skilled craftsmen hammered iron into lock hinges, and other hardware used in building.

These craftsmen were artists who scorned to use anything but the best of materials. As a result, this early builders' hardware is giving as good service today as when it was just put on.

Today, the uninformed—and that's the majority—give little thought to the selection of Builders' Hardware. Yet they want locks that will continue to work smoothly and easily, doors that will swing without sagging or squeaking, and the other advantages that can come only from using the best in builders' hardware.

There's only one way to be sure of these results. That's to buy a standard brand like Yale Builders' Hardware whose makers stamp their names on it as a guarantee that it will give you the service you expect.

restrooms opening off, is finished in Calstone and marble with a marble stairway leading to the second floor. Overstuffed furniture, chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and O. E. Northey of the Defosset Furniture Co., through which firm the entire furnishings were purchased, amounting to more than $20,000, will grace the lobby. Lighting effects are obtained by means of three massive brassieres, 25 inches in diameter, five feet high with six candles encircling the rim. As were all the lighting fixtures throughout the hotel, by the Valley Electric Co. under supervision of J. J. Hitchcock. The lighting fixtures in the lobby are in old gold, and are suspended by a large casing, each weighing 150 pounds.

A telephone exchange is being installed in the lobby to take care of the calls within the building, each room being equipped with a telephone, and a number have been placed in each hall on the different floors for the convenience of the maids.

Lighting Carefully Planned Lighting throughout has been carefully worked out, the lighting being diffused and directed to the working plane with a minimum of loss. A large brassiere fixture, especially set in a light well, and two two-light candle brackets will light the office. In the women's lounge room opening on the Morro street side and off the main lobby two 22-inch brassieres with candles encircling the rim and two candle brackets have been placed. The corridor on the Monterey street side has three 22-inch brassieres suspended from the ceiling by chains, finished in old gold. The Monterey and Morro street entrances have two large moss green brackets and in the entrance a suspended fixture of the same finish has been placed. The bedrooms of the hotel have brackets and ceiling fixtures of the enclosed type, finished in ivory. The bath room lighting fixtures are in white enamel and the halls have large sconce-shaped lights with ivory shades. Red, etched light globes point out the fire escapes with which the building is abundantly equipped.

Rooms Are Comfortable The rooms and halls have a covering of rich Axminster-Bigelow carpets, selected by the Defosset Furniture Co. Windsor beds and walnut dressers and tables have been placed in the rooms. The fifth floor is equipped with two beds in all rooms and on the fourth floor, double beds with a day-bed have been placed, the different floors alternating in this way, so that the desires of the public will be fully met. The rooms have large closets and are as comfortable as a guest room in a private home. Twelve showers have been placed in the building, all the rooms having either a private bath or a shower.

Curtains and draperies are being hung in the halls, those in the rooms having already been placed. There are one hundred beds in the hotel. The bedding is of the highest quality blankets, sheeting, and mattresses, the Anderson having taken personal charge of the sections. In each corridor a linen closet has been built, together with linen hoppers. Mrs. Edna B. B. is the housekeeper for the hotel and as soon as the workmen finish with the rooms on a floor, she and her force put them in spotless condition.

Downstairs on the Morro street side of the building is a lounge room for women that will offer everything that comfort demands. The furniture in the lounge is wicker and the rugs are of soft harmonizing colors.

Air and Light Features Throughout, Mr. Anderson has accomplished his purpose of providing air and light, believing it to be the first requisite of the comfort he sought to offer his guests in the building. Yale builders' hardware was provided by the Union Hardware & Plumbing Co. and the nails were purchased from the C. H. Reed Hardware Co., home firms sharing as far as possible in the building of the structure.

A mahogany passenger elevator will carry the guests in comfort to the top of the building, and a freight elevator has been provided for the safe handling of freight.

In the basement a private banquet room and a dance floor have been provided, giving the city a room suitable for private parties, wanting to enjoy a dinner-dance, or sessions of lodges or clubs. The floor promises enjoyment to the dancer. The remainder of the basement is given over to store rooms.

The Anderson Hotel Grill and Cafe is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sears. Mr. Sears being experienced in cafe management. The grill room has a seating capacity of 75 and will be finished in genuine Philippine mahogany, with chairs, tables and booths of the same finish. Seven booths will be provided and a counter along the front, lower than the usual lunch counter, and equipped with comfortable low chairs. The kitchen is finished in white enamel with the most modern cooking equipment, a large French range and galleys, tables. Mr. Sears has provided all the necessary simple elegance with his name engraved that will help greatly in giving the place the hospitable atmosphere that he desires.

The storerooms in the building have been rented by local business men. On the Monterey street side Dr. H. A. Gowman, well-known optician, has taken an office to be finished in grey wood with furniture and rugs to harmonize. A dark-room and consultation room is being equipped with the latest charts, all new, and a great improvement, Dr. Gowman believes, over the clumsy earlier methods. The private office will be on the mezzanine floor, as will the laboratory. The latest equipment has been purchased for the laboratory, including a new edger in which to grind lenses, sterilizing cabinets to insure perfect sanitation, all designed to aid Dr. Gowman in giving the very best service. There are two entrances to the store, one from the street and one from the lobby of the hotel. Dr. Gowman expects to move into the office Saturday.

The adjoining store has been taken by E. J. Gratton, barber, who has lived and worked in San Luis Obispo for many years and who has just returned from San Francisco with equipment of elegance and comfort, expecting to have a shop in keeping with the general appointments of the hotel.

S. Annier has taken a store on the Morro street side and will open a tailoring shop, although he has a cleaning and dyeing establishment on Monterey street where he has a cleaning and dyeing establishment.

W. Shuregar, florist, will maintain a downtown shop and display room for his business in the new building. Jim De Montis, Morro street bootblack, has taken a space in the building and has purchased a marble bootblack stand, expecting everything that cater to the increased trade in
